LEWISTON MAY BE
4TH CITY IN LEAGUE

Idaho Town May Take Pendleton's Place; Baker Still in the Ring; Washington State League May Be Revived.

Latest reports relative to the Western Tri-State League have it that Baker has not thrown up the sponge and is in the league to stay, providing a fourth city can be found to take the place vacated by Pendleton. Lewiston is looked to as the most favorable city and a delegation will probably pay official court to that city this week. By the end of this week, the fate of the league for this year will doubtless be definitely decided.

Reports from Walla Walla indicate that certain persons in that city are trying to discredit Pendleton by ac-

DON'T COUGH YOURSELF
Into a Serious Condition

To neglect a cough or cold is always a hazardous act. A cold so often goes down on the lungs, and the cough that follows may easily be a symptom of bronchitis, pleurisy, or even pneumonia. Coughing frequently follows attacks of a gripe, and is severe and persistent, is a tax on the system that weakens the vital resistance. Foley's Honey and Tar Compound is an effective medicine for coughs and colds, is a perfect demulcent that may be relied upon for quick relief. A man named A. R. Ellison, Taylor, Wis. writes: "I make a point of recommending Foley's Honey and Tar Compound to all those needing a certain and safe cure from coughs and colds." For sale everywhere.

cusing the local baseball officials of an attempt to disrupt the league. One of the papers would have it appear that President W. N. Matlock took it upon himself to try and knock Baker's plans in the head as soon as he found that Pendleton would not put a team in the field.

The reports are an injustice to the city and Mr. Matlock. When it was definitely settled that Pendleton would surrender her franchise, Mr. Matlock called up the Baker officials as well as those in Walla Walla and North Yakima, feeling that it was his duty to notify them as soon as possible in order that they might shape their course accordingly. As for the fans of the city, their chief regret is and has been that circumstances shaped themselves in such a manner that they not only robbed Pendleton of organized baseball but jeopardized the life of the league. No one here desires of seeing the league go under and, in order that this city may not be held responsible for its death, if for no other reason, the general hope is that another city can be found who will take the franchise.

The most likely solution of the baseball problem if the Western Tri-State goes up seems to be the forming of a Washington State League, a Class C organization, composed of Walla Walla, North Yakima, Everett, Bellingham, Ballard and Aberdeen-Hoquiam. Walla Walla and North Yakima are enthusiastic for such league, and it is understood the west side cities are willing.

The league would be more compact than the old Western Tri-State with Boise and North Yakima at the pivot and there would be better towns with larger population from which to draw.

North Yakima recruits have been notified to report for spring practice today, and the Walla Walla recruits have been notified to report Wednesday. So sure do the baseball men in these two towns feel that there will be league baseball this year, no change in spring training plans have been announced.

Says the La Grande Observer:

Pendleton showed more good judgment by kicking the bucket in the professional baseball business before she had lost any money, than was generally given credit to her. If Pendleton wants to pay tip prices for inferior baseball, well and good, that is her business, but if the businessmen have had enough, then they should—and they have—had the courage to stand up and proclaim the fact. La Grande got hard panning for doing this same sort of thing last year but the fact is that none of the other towns had the nerve to go through with it. Lewiston is now talking for the vacant berth, but unless the Western Tri-State is alert, she is going to lose Baker, maybe. Then there would be real grief in store.

Tommy Boylen, well known Pendleton boy, played on the University of Oregon soccer team Saturday against the Columbia team of Portland and it was his withdrawal from the game on account of injuries that stopped the onslaught which bid fair to take the ball over the Portland team's goal. The game was scoreless.

REVIVAL COMES TO END:
THRONES BID FARE-
WELL TO DR. BULGIN

Saturday night Dr. Bulgin gave what some think to have been his strongest sermon. The text was Daniel 5:27: "Tekel, thou art weighed in the balances and found wanting." He painted the feast of Belshazzar, and his drunken revels, and wickedness, and the tragic end in glowing terms, then drew the lessons from it for these modern times. His points were as follows: (1) When God writes, man had better stop to read. (2) The pleasure of the wicked is short. (3) Death breaks in at a banquet. (4) God has written for us today, in creation, in the bible, in the conscience, in redemption, by the Holy Spirit, and in human sorrow.

The outline of the sermon to the new converts was so pointed that I give its text and setting. 1 Sam. 27:1. "And David said in his heart, I shall now perish one day by the hand of Saul; there is nothing better for me than that I should escape into the land of the Philistines."

Said the evangelist: "David had been victorious over Goliath, Saul envied, so he flees and hides in a dark cave." (1) David said this in his heart. (2) I shall perish. (3) He was in a cave. (4) He planned to go over to the Philistines. When a thing is said with the heart it is said all over, and through you, so don't let discouragements of any kind get to the heart. He said I shall perish, but God through the prophet Samuel, had told him differently. He was to be king. Saul couldn't kill him. Jno. 3:16 Jesus tells every new Christian the same. Don't get in a cave, and places of temptation, but out in the sunlight of God and Christian service in the churches for your fellowman. Stay out of the camp of the Philistines. Your hand is to the plow of Christian life and service, so don't look back. As the eagle teaches the young to fly, so will you learn in the service of your new master."

The Sabbath evening sermon was taken from a reading in the book of Esther 4:16. "So will I go in unto the king, which is not according to law, and if I perish, I perish."

From the historical setting of Esther pleading for her people who had been condemned to death through a decree instigated through the hatred of Haman for Mordecai the Jew, Dr. Bulgin brought out the pleading of Jesus Christ for his people who had sinned and who was under the decree of God. The soul that sinneth it shall die.

At the close of last night's service the following votes of thanks were loudly given: The Warren Music house for the use of its instruments; to the orchestra and all musicians; to the faithful janitor; to the local papers for their generous space, and to the finance committee for handling so efficiently the costs of the tabernacle and the freewill offering for Dr. Bulgin.
